Yale is a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (Division I, FCS Football), the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC), and the Ivy League.

- Yale's intramural sports program involves all of its 14 residential colleges, which compete against each other in over 20 sports spread across separate fall, winter, and spring seasons. Competition is primarily coed, and nearly 50% of students participate in intramural sports at some point. In addition to traditional sports such as basketball, volleyball, golf and soccer, the program's unique offerings include inner-tube water polo, bowling, dodgeball, broomball, pickleball and spikeball – something for everybody. For more information: intramurals.yale.edu

In addition to its varsity and intramural programs, Yale sponsors approximately 50 diverse and highly-competitive club sports teams, which compete against other colleges and universities. Some of Yale's active, unique and popular clubs include rugby, water polo, downhill skiing, Tae Kwon Do, ballet dance, soccer, fencing, skier, trap shooting, air pistol, Ultimate Frisbee, archery, volleyball, lacrosse, equestrian and cycling. Yale has won national club sport championships in croquet, cycling, fishing, pony riding, rugby, sailing, skier, shooting, volleyball, basketball, and wrestling.
